JONES ALMOST CRAZY.

VALET OF LATE MILLIONAIRE
RICE IN BAD SHAPE.

THE BOERS CAPTURE REDDERSBURG.

And Then Release Their Prisoners—Monster Sound Money Parade in Gotham.

New York, November 3.—Charles F. Jones, the valet of the late Millionaire Rice, is in a pitiable condition. He finds no rest in sleep and the physicians fear his mind will give way and leave him hopelessly insane.

LONDON NEWSPAPERS ARE INTERESTING.

London, November 3.—The London newspapers today make the American elections a feature of the news for the first time. Some of the papers appear to expect serious trouble in the United States on election day. The Spectator says any serious attempt to prevent free action of the ballot would of course mean civil war.

CONSIDINE SAYS CORBETT AND MCCOY FAKED.

New York, November 3.—George F. Conside, the former manager of Jim Corbett, is out in a statement in which he verifies the allegations made by the wives of the fighters that the recent McCoy-Corbett fight was a fake.

WILL RECOMMEND A MEMORIAL BRIDGE.

Washington, D. C., November 3.—The district commission in its forthcoming annual report will strongly urge the construction of a Grant memorial bridge across the Potomac.

BRYAN BIDS THEM GOOD BYE.

Chicago, November 3.—Mr. Bryan bid good bye to the employees at the national headquarters today and then attended a dinner and reception at the Iroquois club.

KENTUCKY ONLY IS IN DOUBT.

Chicago, November 3.—Vice Chairman McKinley will have a larger electoral vote than he had in 1896. The only state now in doubt that he carried then is Kentucky.

A NEW CAPITAL FOR THE ANTI-PODES.

Vancouver B. C., November 3.—Australian advices indicate the probable selection of Albany, New South Wales, as the capital of Federated Australia.

TEDDY TO REVIEW SOUND MONEY PARADE.

New York, November 3.—Governor Roosevelt arrived this morning after a two weeks' tour of the state. He will review the sound money parade and then go to his home at Oyster Bay. He refused a number of invitations to speak today.

DISASTER IN A COAL MINE.

Phillippi, W. Va., November 3.—The Berryburg coal mine was blown up this morning. Thirty-two men were killed outright and 100 injured. Berryburg is remote from here and the news comes in slowly. It is now said that at least nine miners were killed and three will be dead in a short time.

CARLISTS ARE GAINING BATTLES.

Paris, November 3.—The Parisian prints a telegram saying that the Carlists in Spain have won every engagement so far and are now besieging Puzos and Zee de Urgel in North Catalonia.

DEMAND CHINA'S OFFICIAL HEADS.

Shanghai, November 3.—The ministers at Peking have demanded that the heads of the Chinese officials reported to have been executed be sent to Peking as a proof that the executions have really taken place.

BOERS CAPTURE BRITISH SOLDIERS.

Cape Town, November 3.—The Boers have captured Reddersburg, south of Bloemfontein, took Captain Morrison and thirty men prisoners and released them later, having no facilities for holding them.

A GREAT SOUND MONEY PARADE.

New York, November 3.—The sound money parade today was the greatest peace demonstration ever seen in the metropolis. By 9 o'clock tonight it is estimated that 130,000 men will have passed over the line of march. The city is handsomely decorated and the day is practically a holiday, as a majority of the business houses are closed.

WILL LEAVE FOR LINCOLN.

Chicago, November 3.—Mr. Bryan delivered five short speeches here today and this evening will review the Democratic parade and leave at 11 o'clock for his home at Lincoln, Neb.

The only complaint we ever heard of Blanke's Coffee was made by a boarding-house keeper. She said Blanke's Coffees were so much better than her boarders drank too much. Even then when you consider that "Faust Blend," Blanke's best coffee, costs less than a cent per cup, it costs little more to have the best than the poorest coffee. Blanke's other brands of coffee are as good proportionately as Faust Blend. We keep them.

pose, of the administration to remain in Cuba until a government has been established capable of administering the affairs of the island.

The convention which is to frame the Cuban constitution will meet on November 5. It is expected that the work of this body will not be completed until several months have expired. This will carry it beyond the session of congress on March 4. The new congress will not meet in regular session until 1901. President McKinley does not intend to take the responsibility of declaring the constitution of Cuba as satisfactory, and terminating the mission of the United States in Cuba.

He will refer the whole question to congress. It follows, therefore, that the final evacuation of Cuba cannot be made before some time in 1902. Upon the action of congress depends the question of whether Cuba shall be an entirely independent nation or whether it shall be a sort of West Indian Egypt.

ACCIDENTAL PRESIDENTS OF RECENT YEARS.

(The World's Work for November.)

No name but Lincoln's was presented to the republican convention in 1864, and from the first his re-election was never in serious doubt. But the abiding issue of the campaign, as the sequel proved, was the nomination and election of Andrew Johnson to the vice presidency. Lincoln for good reasons preferred a war democrat on the ticket with him, and his first selection was General Benjamin F. Butler. But Butler, when approached by an agent of the president, declined peremptorily to permit his name to be considered, and Johnson was finally selected as the most available man for the place. Butler refused because of his personal dislike of Lincoln. It was a costly refusal, for Johnson became president within a year.

Grant's nominations in 1868 and 1872 were beyond the power of chance to prevent; but in 1876 the enmity of an angry man helped to defeat Blaine, the favorite of a majority of the members of his party, and brought about the unexpected nomination of Hayes. When Blaine was speaker of the house of representatives, James N. Tyner, a member of the house from Indiana, coveted the chairmanship of the committee on post offices and post roads. He asserted that Blaine had promised him the place, and then, without warning gave it to another. Facing the speaker in his private room, he declared to Blaine that he should remember what he called his betrayal when Blaine should become a candidate, a year or two later, for the presidential nomination. Blaine laughed at him, it was then said; but Tyner, who had some influence in the politics of his state, was as good as his word. When in the republican convention of 1876 it became apparent that Oliver P. Morton could not be nominated, the Indiana delegation decided to support Hayes, who up to that time had not been thought of as a probable candidate. Blaine's friends had counted upon Indiana when Morton was withdrawn; but Tyner turned them from Blaine to Hayes.

By the electoral commission, where by Hayes secured the presidential office, although Tilden received 250,000 majority of the popular vote, was completed the chain of unusual events whereby Hayes became president. In 1880 Tilden was certainly the choice of his party. But in the confusion of the democratic convention—caused by a letter from Tilden expressing the wish that the convention should nominate him (which the convention took seriously, however it was meant to be taken)—an eloquent speech by Daniel Dougherty of Pennsylvania caused the ill-starred nomination of Hancock. In the republican convention Blaine, Sherman and Grant were presented as candidates, but Grant was chosen. Had he kept the purpose that he once formed—not to attend the convention—there is little likelihood that he would have been nominated. The surprise since 1880 may perhaps be said to include the first nominations of Cleveland and Harrison.

It is a singular fact that Queen Victoria has never seen the House of Commons in conclave. Early in the reign it was not thought proper for princes of the blood royal to be present at debates, but Prince Albert broke the unwritten law, and the Prince of Wales has made a point of attending on all those great occasions when history has been made.

WILL NOT EVACUATE CUBA UNTIL 1902.

Washington, November 3.—American troops will probably remain in Cuba for at least a year and a half more. When General Wood was in Washington recently there was some discussion among officials of the war department as to the probable time for the final evacuation of Cuba by the troops of the United States, and it was concluded that it would hardly be possible for the last soldiers to leave the island before the spring of 1902 at the earliest. Whether they leave at that time will depend on the action of congress. Under the terms of the joint resolution adopted by congress and approved by the president upon the pacification of Cuba, the United States is to withdraw and leave the government to the people of the island. It was the intention, and it is the pur-
